Common Updates

ADSync Tool

If your firm is currently using the CCH Login (username/password) mode of authentication, the following information is not applicable.

If your firm is using Federated Services with the ADSync Tool, you may now create the OAuth token using a new feature. To use the feature, open Dashboard and click Application Links. Select Utilities under Firm, and then Common in the navigation pane. Then, click ADSync Authentication Token. This new option is only applicable to firms using our Passive with IDaaS mode of authentication.

Any firm using older modes of Active Directory Integration or ADFS Active mode should continue to use the existing method for AD synchronization.

Firms using the Passive without IDaaS mode of authentication should use the older ADSync Tool or move to Passive with IDaaS to use the newer ADSync Tool.

Please contact our Wolters Kluwer support team if your firm should move from Passive without IDaaS to Passive with IDaaS mode of authentication. See knowledge base article 000110659 for more detail on when and how to use this new OAuth Token for the AD Sync Tool when CCH Access is configured for Passive with IDaaS mode of authentication.
